TOKENOMICS

INTRO

The Genin token forms the backbone of the Genin ecosystem, powering a range of innovative use cases for influencers, fans, and businesses. Its robust tokenomics framework ensures fair distribution, allocation, and utilization of Genin tokens, driving long-term sustainability and value creation for all stakeholders.

Genin tokens adhere to the ERC-20 standard, a widely adopted and well-established token standard on the Polygon layer-2 scaling solution built on the Ethereum blockchain. Our team made this choice to offer several advantages, including interoperability, standardized governance, faster transactions, reduced costs, enhanced security, and a capped supply of 100 trillion tokens.

TOKEN ALLOCATION

The Genin token distribution is designed to align the interests of all stakeholders, fostering long-term growth and stability. The allocation breakdown is as follows:

GENIN COMMUNITY PROTECTION: SAFEGUARDING OUR FUTURE

COMBATING DUMPING AND MARKET MANIPULATION

"Pump and dump" schemes and excessive token sales by speculators can significantly harm a project's long-term viability. Our Genin Community Protection mechanism safeguards against such practices, ensuring a stable and secure environment for all token holders

TWO-TIERED SELLING THRESHOLDS

Genin Community Protection utilizes a two-tiered daily selling threshold per wallet address. This approach allows for healthy trading activity while discouraging large, rapid token selloffs:

- Tier 1 Threshold: This initial threshold represents a reasonable daily sales limit for an individual user. Users can freely sell tokens up to this limit without any restrictions.
- Tier 2 Threshold: This higher threshold signifies a significantly larger daily sales amount. Exceeding this limit will trigger the anti-dumping mechanism.

AGGRESSIVE BURNING TO DISCOURAGE DUMPING

If a wallet address attempts to sell tokens exceeding the Tier 2 threshold within a 24-hour period, Genin Community Protection will automatically initiate an aggressive burning mechanism. A significant portion of the attempted sale will be burned from the seller's wallet, effectively removing those tokens from circulation.

This approach discourages large, rapid token sales that could destabilize the market and harm the community. It incentivizes a more balanced and sustainable trading environment, benefiting long-term token holders.

TOKEN BURNS

Token burns are a deliberate and controlled reduction in the number of Genin tokens in circulation. This process is implemented to increase the scarcity and value of the token, enhance its deflationary nature, and promote a healthier tokenomics.

The Genin team will periodically conduct token burns, utilizing a portion of the protocol's revenue or community-based initiatives. These burns will serve as a testament to the project's commitment to long-term sustainability and value creation for all Genin stakeholders.
